TEUTONS DRIVEN TO OPEN FIGHTING

Byng's Cavalry, Monster Tanks and Infantry Are Today Battling Forward to Cambrai.

Great Advance Is Spreading Out to the Northward and Growing Wider.

Extent of the Success Already Won Is Growing.

Fierce Hand-to-hand Fighting. Newly Won Ground Made Secure. Nine Thousand Prisoners Taken.

MRS. DE SAULLES TRIED FOR HUSBANDS MURDER

New York, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Blanca de Saulles, the Chilean beauty, who killed her husband, John Longer de Saulles, New York society man and former Yale athlete, in a dispute over the custody of their son, John de Saulles, Jr., was placed on trial Monday at Mineola Long Island. Mrs. de Saulles divorced her husband, de Saulles being the guilty party. The court, however, decreed that the child should spend a part of its time in the care of each parent. Mrs. de Saulles alleged that her divorced husband kept the little boy over the time allowed. She called at the de Saulles Long Island home to demand the surrender of the boy. In a dispute with de Saulles she shot and killed him.

COMMAND OF A WIDE SECTOR IS OBTAINED

Italian Forces Are Holding Firm on the Piave.

Hourly Their Chances of Ultimate Success Grow Brighter.

All German Counter Attacks Repulsed by British.

Fearful Fighting as Apex of Wedge Is Driven Deeper.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

While standing off German counter attacks British forces have consolidated their gains and are preparing for another plunge toward Cambrai.

General Byng's men are just west of Fontaine Notre Dame, less than three miles west of Cambrai and have nearly completed the occupation of Burtin Woods, just north of Fontaine and which dominates the entire region.

Fontaine was the scene of the heaviest fighting yesterday. Wednesday night the village was occupied by the British, but a strong counter attack Thursday drove the British to the western outskirts.

The village is the apex of the wedge which the British have driven toward Cambrai and which includes 50 square miles of territory formerly within the German lines.

The Germans are reported rushing up reserves for counter attacks.

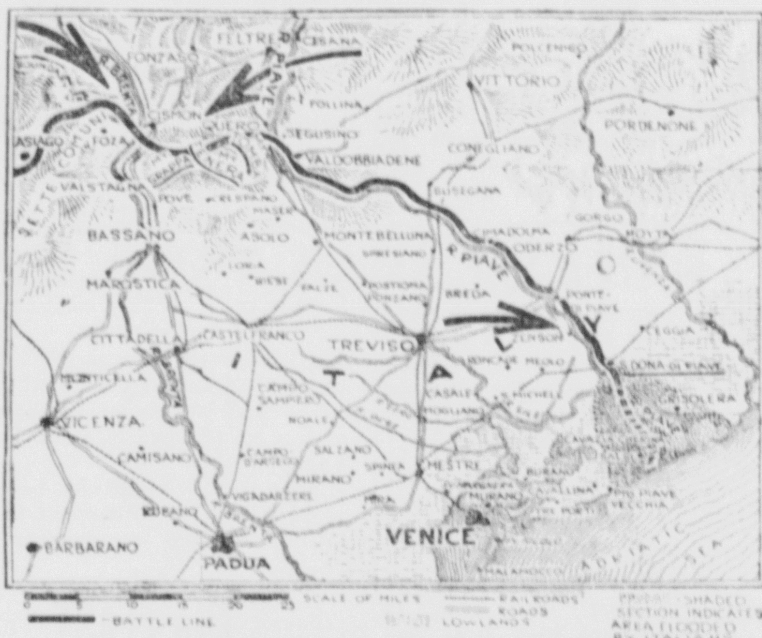

A statement from Berlin today says the German forces have forced the British from the village of Fontaine and nearby points, and that British attacks against Rumilly, Banteux and Vendhuile collapse with heavy losses.

ITALIANS FIRM

High military opinion recently expressed that the chances of the Italians holding the Piave line and saving Venice are increasing hourly seems likely to be strengthened by the tone of today's official statement showing continued successful resistance by the Italians to the attempts made by the enemy to pierce their northern front.

The enemy artillery is more active along the American sector on the western front, but no new casualties have resulted.

ITALIAN NORTH LINE BENT BACK

Striking from the Trentino south along the Brenta River and south-east from the Upper Piave, the Austro-Germans are gradually bending in the Italian line. Recent reports tell of terrific fighting on the Mount Grappa-Mount Fenera-Mount Tomba line between the Brenta and the Piave. One the lower Piave there has been no infantry action since the Italians cleared the west bank around Zenson.

HOUSE MAKES RECORD TIME TO PARIS MEET

(By Associated Press Cable)

Paris, November 23.—Colonel E. M. House and the other members of the American Mission have made the quickest trip from London to Paris since the war began.

They crossed the channel at 31 knots and traveled from a French seaport to Paris at a speed not matched in three years.

ILL HEALTH MAY FORCE HIM OUT

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, November 23.—Rear Admiral Washington L. Capps, chief constructor of the Navy, has asked to be relieved as general manager of the Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, because of ill health, and probably will be succeeded by H. O. Merl Ferguson, now president and general manager of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

BIG ROUND UP OF FAKE OFFICERS THE NEXT MOVE

By Associated Press Dispatch.

New York, November 23.—A concerted country-wide effort to round up fake British army officers who, it is said, have imposed on the American public in many ways, is to be made by British army officers in New York.

GOVERNOR PEABODY OF COLORADO DEAD

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Denver, November 23.—James Hamilton Peabody, Governor of Colorado during the Cripple Creek fight in the strike of 1903, when there were a number of clashes between state troops and strikers, died here today.

BUSINESS MEN TO VISIT CAMP

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Columbus, O., November 23.—A committee of Ohio business men recently appointed by Governor Cox

GOVERNOR REFUSED NEGRO'S EXTRADITION

GOV. SAMUEL MCCALL

Governor Samuel McCall, of Massachusetts, whose refusal to honor the request for the extradition of John Johnson, a negro, charged with attacking a fourteen-year-old girl called forth an indignant protest from Governor Cornwell, of West Virginia. Governor McCall, in his letter to Governor Cornwell, declining to honor the latter's request for the negro, asserted that because of Johnson's race and color it was feared that he would not be treated fairly in West Virginia and that there was reason to fear an attempt on the part of some of the populace to take the law into its own hands.

will leave tonight for Alabama where the Ohio National Guard is in training at Camp Sheridan, to start an investigation to find what Ohio can do for the Ohio guard soldiers before they go to France.

HARD PRESSED FOR SOMETHING TO DO

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Cincinnati, O., November 23.—"No attempt will be made to indict the voters who sold their vote, but we want to get at the vote buyers, who are the responsible parties."

This statement was made today by Attorney General McGhee, who came here under instructions from Governor Cox and started a re-investigation before the grand jury of the election of 1916 in Hamilton county. This is the third investigation of the election.

HARDING HITS HARD

(By Associated Press)

Columbus, Nov. 23.—Americans who say this war was brought on by big business and Wall street were indicted for pronouncing a lie, and statements who preach a gospel of envy and hate were passionately denounced in an address by Senator Warren G. Harding at the twenty-second annual banquet of the Ohio Independent Telephone association at the Hartman hotel. Senator Harding put it up to telephone interests to get in this war on a business basis just as much as the men in arms.

LEFT TO WILSON

Washington, November 23.—(Associated Press Dispatch)—Demands for wage increases soon to be presented formally to the railroads by the four brotherhoods will be passed on to President Wilson and succeeding developments will depend upon action he may take.

CROXTON WILL INVESTIGATE UGLY CHARGE

Hunting for Parties Responsible for Allowing Food to Rot and Freeze in Cars.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Columbus, O., November 23.—The Ohio Federal Food Administration today started activity to find who is responsible for the sidetracking and neglect of scores of cars of perishable food stuffs and have immediate action taken to free cars and get the food where it will not freeze and be wasted.

At Youngstown an investigation today revealed that over 75 cars of perishables are being held in railroad yards, the goods rotting while dealers refused to present bills of lading in the hope, it is said, of stimulating higher prices.

Fred C. Croxton today called a meeting of all commission men of Ohio to be held Tuesday to discuss the situation.

BRITISH OFFICERS BRING TRENCH WAR TO THE CAMPS

By Associated Press Dispatch.

DANGER ZONES WAR RISK LESS

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, November 23.—On account of the reduction in ship torpedoes during the past few weeks the War Risk Bureau today lowered the rates on vessels passing through the submarine zone from 5 to 4 per cent.

YOUNGSTOWN STEEL PLANTS NEEDING COAL

Great Mills Must Close Unless Relief Comes.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Youngstown, O., November 23.—The coal shortage in the Mahoning Valley has become so acute that one of the principal iron and steel companies has notified the fuel administrator that unless relief is afforded within 24 hours it will close its plant.

The company is said to be working upon a number of government and allied orders for steel.

BLAMED FOR ITALY'S LOSSES

(Associated Press Cable.)

London, November 23.—The Vatican is accused in an editorial in the Morning Post of implicating in the propaganda which the paper says was largely responsible for the Italian reverses.

Reviewing what it describes as machinations the Post declares its political activities during the war "can not be regarded as consistent with the principles of neutrality."

VEGETABLES ROT BY THE CARLOAD

Federal Officials Now Seek to Fix Blame.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Cleveland, O., November 23.—City and Federal officials today took up the task of placing blame for a situation which permitted millions of pounds of vegetables to rot on the tracks of the New York Central railroad.

Inspectors have found more than 100 cars of potatoes, cabbage and apples laying in freight yards where they have stood from five to eight days without being moved to where they could be unloaded.

MARKED ADVANCE

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, November 23.—Food prices in this country advanced two per cent from August to September, according to an announcement today by the Labor Bureau.

Of the 27 staple articles of diet on which the compilations are based, 17 increased, 7 decreased and 3 remained stationary. Pork chops advanced 13 per cent; eggs 14 per cent and corn meal 24 per cent.

New York, November 23.—Jeremiah O'Leary, president of the American Truth Society and Editor of the "Bull" a publication recently barred from the mail was today indicted on the charge of violating the espionage act and postal laws.

NEW BARRED ZONE

(By Associated Press)

Amsterdam, Nov. 23.—A new German barred zone, a dispatch from Berlin announces, has been established around the Azores, "which have become in economic and military respects important hostile bases of Atlantic navigation." The Azores islands are in the north Atlantic about two-thirds of the way between the United States and Europe and belonging to Portugal.

An Amsterdam dispatch last Monday said that German Vice Admiral Kirchhofer declared that the United States had established herself on the Azores and constructed fortifications at Ponta Delgada.

TAKES SLAM AT ALL OTHER INSTITUTIONS

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Columbus, O., November 23.—As result of the condition unearthed at Longview Hospital, Cincinnati, in the alleged ill-treatment of inmates of the institution by attendants and subsequent statement of health officer Dr. Landis, of that city, to the effect "that conditions were no worse than at all other state insane institutions" the managing officers of every insane institution in Ohio have been called to Columbus for a special meeting next Tuesday.

NO FURTHER TRACE OF FIRE BUGS IS FOUND BY POLICE

So far no arrests for the attempted burning of the Washington Milling Company's elevator Wednesday night, and so far as known no suspects are held other than that the ones who attempted the work are agents of the German government.

The apparatus which was to be used in starting the fire and the chisel used by the culprit in endeavoring to force the window of the elevator, are still held by the police.

Deputy Fire Marshal Donovan, of Columbus, came down Thursday evening for a short examination of the outfit used and to ascertain if any definite clue existed. He made a very careful examination of the oil saturated material used in the old tea-kettle. He expressed the belief that there was little hope of ferreting out the villains.

Nothing in a long while has caused the general indignation as the affair of Wednesday night, and local business interests are making every effort to prevent the application of infernal machines to their factories and plants.

MUST CO-OPERATE TO COMBAT DISEASE

Health Officer John Byron in a statement today declared that at the present time the city is comparatively free of contagious diseases, and urges all citizens to assist in every way possible to prevent any contagious disease obtaining a foothold in the city.

There has hardly been a time during the past year that contagious disease of some kind has not existed in the city, and a very careful watch has been necessary to keep the contagion from spreading, and to stamp it out. Some persons knowing that they had contagious diseases, have not called a physician. Health Officer Byron points out, and as a result it required time to undo the work of their carelessness.

If persons who have reasons to believe they are suffering of some contagious disease will notify the Health Department a physician will be furnished free of charge, providing the person is unable to pay for the service.

That there is a likelihood of being an unusually large amount of contagion during the period of the war, spread by German agents and otherwise, is the belief of Health Officer Byron, who declares now is the time for citizens to begin the work of hearty co-operation to prevent any disease spreading in this city.

REPLEVIN SUIT

Elroy Shobe, in the court of common pleas, has instituted a replevin action to obtain possession of a Standard Dayton automobile, making Chas. Burnett defendant. Logan and Junk represent the plaintiff.

SABINA MAN WILL MOVE TO THIS CITY

Walter Dumford, who has had charge of the Babb Bros. store here for several months past, has severed his connection with the same and accepted a position with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., with headquarters at Washington C. H., to which city he expects to move. He will have charge also of the Sabina territory for this company. Mr. Dumford is succeeded in the Babb store by H. E. Collett of Wilmington, who came Monday to enter upon his duties. Mr. Collett is an experienced grocery man and has been connected with the Babb store in Wilmington for some time.—Sabina News Record.

IMPERIAL DEGREE STAFF CONSIDERING HOME GUARD COMPANY

With the attempt to burn the elevator of the Washington Milling Company, the demand for a Home Guard Company in this city has been growing rapidly, and has come to light that a movement is on foot to form a Home Guard of Imperial Degree Staff of the Odd Fellows Lodge in this city, making the staff the nucleus for a strong organization to be drilled by Captain Vincent.

It is understood that application has already been made by a member of the staff for a charter as a Home Guard Company, and that some definite action is expected in the near future.

The duties of a Home Guard Company are purely for home protection, and to aid in the preservation of order in their home communities should the occasion arise.

Full information concerning the equipment furnished and what part must be furnished by the members, if any is to be supplied by them, is being sought.

A large number of persons have already expressed a willingness to become members of a company of Home Guards.

RUMOR THAT FAST TRAINS COME OFF

While nothing official can be obtained from the local station relative to the matter of the proposed changes in the schedule of trains on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad when the winter time card takes effect shortly. It is rumored that the limited trains, running over the Midland Division between Columbus and St. Louis are to be removed.

This is given as merely "caboose talk," but it is not denied that train men usually know what they are gossiping about, and it is very rarely that their stories about changes to be made go awry.

PACKED HOUSES TO SEE LOCAL SOLDIERS

Two packed houses at the Palace Theater Thursday night testified to the public's eagerness to see "our boys."

The pictures of the Rainbow Division, United States Army, were fine and satisfactory in every way—in fact so real that on-lookers felt as if they had actually caught a glimpse of Company M.

Major Allen looked very proud of his men and Captain Hardway was well in the limelight. It was very evident that Lieutenant Billie E. Paul had "picked up a little" and Lieutenant Johnson looked as if he had acquired a few inches in height.

The officers had been taken close up so that the film was exceptionally good and quite a few members of company M were distinguishable.

The officer's review was highly impressive.

Following the army pictures there was a feature comedy drama of five reels brim full of genuine humor, the kind of a picture that gives you a new lease on life.

"Efficiency Edgar's Courtship," is an Essanay comedy-drama. Taylor Holmes, the stage star, appears to no less advantage as the screen star. He is one of the best known comedians on the speaking stage. His latest success, "His Majesty Bunker Bean," sent a ripple of laughter across the continent and was one of the big hits in New York and Chicago.

Essanay has not spared money in the staging of "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship." The photography is excellent and the scenes beautiful. Taken all in all this comedy-drama is pronounced one of the best that has adorned the screen for some time.

Social and Personal

Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins, the charming mistress of one of Washington's handsomest and most hospitable homes, entertained Thursday, with the first of a series of luncheons.

It was a perfectly appointed and exceptionally elaborate affair, of the utmost pleasure to sixteen favored guests.

The spacious rooms were radiant with the flowers of autumn—splendid chrysanthemums in rich mahogany rose, yellow and white, radiating in gorgeous bloom.

The central decoration of the luncheon table was a florist's masterpiece, an immense basket, flat and oblong in shape, filled with chrysanthemums, all colors in exquisite blend of shades, combined with swansonia, fern and human leaves. The beauty of the arrangement was reflected in a long table setting forming the base.

The favors were conundrum crackers, which lent added zest to the merry luncheon hour.

The menu comprised four courses of delicacies.

Following the luncheon the guests knitted and enjoyed beautiful Victrola records.

Seated with Mrs. Hopkins and her mother, Mrs. Ellen Jones, were Mesdames H. B. Dahl, William Boynton Gage, Carrie B. Willis, W. M. Mitchener, Harry Sprenger, M. E. Hitchcock, William Sprenger, Frank S. Jackson, Arthur Leland, J. M. Willis, Fred D. Woodard, Albert McCoy, Alice Moorman, Miss Bess Cleaveland.

Mrs. George Worrell launched the Red Cross tea in Millwood at a charming appointed affair this afternoon.

Among women who have earlier been hostesses in the chain of Red Cross teas are Mesdames William McClain, Josephine Kerr, Jessa Feairs, Walter Ellis and Fred M. Mark.

Mrs. L. P. Howell delightfully entertained the Thursday Euchre Club at their fortnightly session yesterday.

Honoring Misses Anna and Vesta Hempstead and Miss Stella McCall, who leave soon to make their home in Akron, Misses Mayne and Sarah Allerdiase entertained Thursday night at a delightfully informal little dinner several friends of their closest intimacy.

Beautiful central embellishment was formed in an artistic arrangement of fruit.

Covers were laid for twelve, the guests including, Misses Anna and

Be On Your Guard

The narrow margin by which German agents failed in their attempt to destroy the great elevator and ware house of The Washington Milling Company, Wednesday evening, should prove a warning to warehousemen and farmers hereabouts.

Now that the attempt has been made and failed, it is, perhaps fortunate that it occurred. It will serve to arouse our people to a realization that we are not secure, even here in Fayette county, from the efforts of the cowardly Prussian spy and Prussian sympathizer and between the active servant of the Kaiser and the passive sympathizer there is not much difference. We should never, for a moment forget that.

The men who are not heart and soul and body actively at work in this great battle for human liberty, the men who question the attitude of this great nation, the men who are passively, or only sullenly, loyal at this time, deserve to be watched at least.

They are the kind of men who burn barns and graneries, who poison wells, maim horses and kill live stock. Never take your eyes off of the fellows who are loyal for policy sake of for business reasons.

Warehousemen should guard carefully their precious stores of food stuffs, farmers should guard their barns and graneries. The Prussian spies and the Prussian sympathizers are abroad in the land and are here in Fayette county just as they are in other places.

Their work is dull and bungling, but it is their depravity that makes them dangerous. Honest people can't realize that such treachery and jealousy could be harbored by human beings and failing to realize that is just where the spies obtain their opportunity.

On your guard here at home as well as on the battle lines of Europe.

Take no chances—watch every thing and above all keep your eye on the passively loyal chaps.

The Great Offensive

The advance of the British forces in Flanders, on Wednesday, over a front of more than thirty-two miles, capturing like they were made of flimsy card board, the elaborate entrenchments of the supposedly impregnable Hindenburg line, has suddenly given to the war, an entirely new aspect.

The comparative ease with which the sweeping successes were achieved seems to justify the belief that something is radically wrong with the German armies. That all of the reinforcements from the eastern front did not arrive in time to be effective in the defense seems reasonably certain. That the defenses, constructed with such "thoroughness," so elaborate and so extensive, were carried with no more difficulty, apparently, than the hastily constructed field trenches, is a development of great importance.

Germany had staked all her hopes of making a draw of the war, after having adopted defensive tactics, entirely, upon the great Hindenburg defense line.

If that line can't hold against the British and French attacks what then becomes of the defense of which Germany has so blatantly boasted?

The most significant part of the great news of Wednesday and Thursday, from the front in Flanders, is that at one or two points the Germans were driven out of the third and last line of defenses in the great and elaborate system.

That the morale—the courage and hope—of the German soldiers is giving way under the incessant and tremendous hammering of the British and French, seems to be the most reasonable explanation of the collapse on Wednesday.

We have time and again pointed out that the great war is to be won on the west front. All other theatres of war are of secondary importance.

The British and French, reinforced now by the Americans, are after the great Prussian army operating on the west front. There can be no end of the war until that army is destroyed and Prussia made to realize the horrors of war. It is essential that the hold on Belgium be broken if possible before the new year dawns and the allies have, determinedly, set themselves to accomplish that task. They are taking no chances. They are not wasting men and ammunition in spectacular drives to capture great stretches of land of no military importance and they are not permitting themselves to be diverted from the one big purpose—the destruction of the Hindenburg army.

Poetry For Today

THE LAWLESS HEART

Dull trade hath bound me in its grip,
And never shall I be free,
Yet I dream of the decks of a pirate ship,
In the roll of the open sea;
I dream of the pennant dread and black,
That flies at the mast away,
As we swoop along on a merchant's track
In the sting of the flying spray.
Oh, I am a law-abiding chap,
Yet deep in my heart I'd be
A buccaneer with a scarlet cap
And a terror of the sea;
As lawless and ruthless a bandit
As history ever knew,
Roaming the seas in search of loot
At the head of an evil crew.
Oh, here at home I am meek and mild,
A man with a family,
Yet I dream of deeds that are dark and wild
And of red, red fights at sea;
And under my breath I softly hum
A stave from a pirate's song,
And my throat grows parched for pirate rum,
For I have been dry so long!
My life is ordered, and shaped and bound
And kept to its rule and line,
But my thoughts can wander the whole world round
And my dreams—my dreams are mine!
So the old tales hold me in their grip,
And I hungrily long to be
A pirate chief on a low black ship
In the roll of the open sea!

GERMANS REDUCE NUMBER OF TRAINS TO CONSERVE COAL

(Associated Press Correspondence)
Berne, November 17.—Germany has resorted to stringent measures at reducing its coal consumption during the coming winter by cutting down its train service and curtailing the number of people who travel, especially in express trains.

The latest edition of the Journal of the Association of German Railroads announces that at a recent meeting of the representatives of all German railroads, held in Berlin, it was unanimously decided not only to reduce the number of trains, but to put such a high cost upon traveling, by means of of radical raises in the price of tickets, as to insure that only those will travel who absolutely must do so.

The advances contemplated and which probably will become effective within a very short time are as follows: On all tickets for express trains costing up to five marks, an extra charge of three marks will be levied; tickets hitherto costing from five to 10 marks will be taxed 8 marks extra; from 10 to 15 marks, 13 marks extra; from 15 to 25 marks, 20 marks extra, and for sums above 25 marks, 10 marks extra for each 10 marks as ordinary charged.

Likewise there is also to be a sharp limitation in baggage regulations so that both the size and number of the trunks, as well as their weight, will be cut down. For the first time in many years, Sunday trains are to be reduced in number. Hitherto they have always run on weekday schedules, sometimes even have been increased in number because of the German's love of Sunday excursions.

In order to assure the punctual arrival and departure of trains, which unfortunately suffered greatly last winter because it was impossible to get up enough steam to haul the long heavy express trains on time, the time tables will be revised so that the trips will be longer than under the present schedule, though probably no longer than they have been actually taking.

OHIO STATE MUST BUILD NEW TEAM

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Columbus, O., November 22.—Nine of the star football players on this year's championship eleven at Ohio State university have played their last "Big Ten" football. The loss of these men will mean that Coach Wilce will have to build up an entire new line next fall.

The men who are through with their college football are Captain H. J. Courtney, Bolen Karch, Van Dyne, Seddon, Peabody, H. G. Courtney, Yergas and Boesel. Following Ohio State's championship victory over Illinois last week, Quarterback Yergas answered a call to join the naval reserves. The other men will leave school.

However, "Chic" Harley, State's all-American half back, has another year of conference football, unless he joins the army before next fall. Stinchcomb also has another year to play, and Coach Wilce expects to build up another championship team around these two star players.

DRAFTED MEN RECEIVE MUCH MAIL IN CAMP

Minor Defects Bar Many Men, and Frenchman Declares the Standard is too High.

Camp Notes.

By Associated Press Dispatch.
Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., November 23.—Rejection because of physical disability of so many drafted troops sent to Camp Sherman for military training, has elicited from several of the French officers, here as instructors, expressions of wonder that such minor defects should be cause for returning men to their homes. It is generally admitted that the physical standard maintained by the American army is high, and it is the prediction of the French officers that the standard, before the war is over, will have to be lowered considerably.

Lieutenant H. Kolb-Bernard, one of the French officers detailed to Camp Sherman, recently saw a number of men leaving camp, after medical officers had found slight defects in their physiques. "Almost every one of these men," he said, "would be gladly accepted for service in the French army and without doubt would make good soldiers. The United States has set a high standard, which it will be able to maintain for a while, but if the war lasts as long as we believe it will, men who now are placed on ineligible lists will be gladly accepted and sent to the front immediately."

Anyone who thinks that the drafted men at Camp Sherman are neglected by the folks back home has only to visit one of the postoffice branches which are maintained in each regiment, to be convinced otherwise. Sergeant-postmasters who have charge of the distribution of the mail will testify that selects are receiving mail not by the sack but by the truck load.

Five times each day incoming trains literally swamp the camp postoffices, and as soon as the big army trucks distribute the many packages, which according to the regimental postmasters contain anything and everything "from a load of hay to a barrel of apples," offices are crowded with men to receive word from relatives or friends or to partake of dainties sent to them by the folks at home.

Military postal officials are wondering now how they are going to handle the avalanche of Christmas mail. Nearly forty thousand men now are in the camp, and it is certain that almost every one will receive something in the way of a Christmas gift. Extra facilities probably will have to be provided and the success of getting the mail to the men will depend to a large extent upon whether the consignors get it away at an early date.

Plans are rapidly being made for the opening and dedication on Thanksgiving Day of the Central Red Cross building and the Masonic building which will house visitors coming to the cantonment to see selective draft men. Other housing units being built in connection with the Red Cross community system are rapidly being completed and when finished will be able to accommodate upwards of 800 persons.

For the dedication exercises, appeals are being made to every florist in communities from which the drafted men come, to donate chrysanthemums. All donations may be addressed to the Camp Sherman Community Committee, and should arrive by Thanksgiving Day.

GERMANS URGING SENDING OF GIFTS

Copenhagen, Nov. 22.—Appeals for subscription to funds for the purchase of Christmas presents for the soldiers in the trenches are appearing in the German Press. The Germans have learned by experience, to make an early start in organizing this all-important feature of soldiers' life.

Many of the larger newspapers are conducting special funds for Christmas and almost every town is making subscriptions for its soldiers.

Appeals for funds have been issued by various army corps. The presents which do so much to maintain the spirits of the soldiers in their dreary life at the front usually consist of small Christmas boxes for the individual soldier, containing small articles of comfort, necessity or amusement.

The value of this stimulant to the morale of the troops is so recognized by the military authorities, that shipments of gifts rank with munitions as regards urgency of transportation just before Christmas.

MINERS MUST PAY OPERATORS DAMAGE

Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 23.—The jury in the suit of the Bache-Denman syndicate against the United Mine Workers and others returned a verdict in the federal court awarding the plaintiffs damages in the sum of $200,000. Under the Sherman act the plaintiffs are entitled to three times this amount, or $600,000. The plaintiffs sued for $2,500,000, alleging their properties had been damaged to that amount by the acts of violence of the miners at their Prairie Creek mines in Sebastian county in July, 1914, following the attempt of the mine operators to work the mines with non-union men. Several lives were sacrificed in the shooting that occurred.

Mrs. Mary Miller Telis How Tanlac Put Her Stomach Back in Good Shape—Recommends
It.

"I can eat anything I want since I've been taking Tanlac," said Mrs. Mary Miller, 708 Race street, Cincinnati, O. "Before I took Tanlac I had a lot of trouble with my stomach. I bloated badly after eating and I'd feel stuffy and drowsy for a long time. Food just seemed to lay in my stomach without digesting and it felt heavy. I could scarcely eat potatoes or anything greasy because of the bad effects that always resulted."

"I read and heard a lot about Tanlac being good for the stomach and so finally I tried it. It seemed to help me from the first. I kept getting better until now my stomach is back in fine shape again. I can eat anything I want without any bad effects at all. 'I think Tanlac is a great medicine and I recommend it.'"

It's the words of Ohioans that count. Tanlac doesn't ask you to take the word of a man from Maine or a woman from California for its merit. Tanlac gets proof at home. You know you can trust the words of people from your home state so you know Tanlac is just the thing for you if you are weak or run down. You can get Tanlac at Blackmer & Tanquary's drug store, Frank Christopher's drug store or C. S. Haver's drug store. Advt.

DIAMOND JUBILEE FUND GROWING

The announcement of total subscriptions received by Ohio Wesleyan University in her drive for the Diamond Jubilee Million made by the treasurer this week is causing redoubting of efforts in all directions. The amount received in small gifts the past week was $2,382, which brings the total to date at $392,798.69.

There is only about four weeks remaining in which the rest of the million must be secured. A number of larger subscriptions are looked for in the near future, alumni committees are getting in good work, and the classes of the university are starting their drives.

The need for the great fund for new buildings and endowment is urgent. The college is serving the country in an unique manner in war times. It must have support to carry out its work.

TRAPPER'S 'GAL' SNATCHED FROM MOUNTED POLICE, IS RESCUED FROM FRENZIED MOB

Deacon Leads Attempted Burning of Child For Witchcraft; Victim Held As du Fere Murder Suspect.

People called her "Wild Sumac," because the beautiful young gypsy of the Canadian Northwest was as untamed and ungilded in her wild growth as her kindred spirit, as the antelope.

But she was not care free. Into this child's life came peril and sudden death, the conflict of rough men of the woods meeting in the throes of primitive passion and hatred. Around her surged a battle of wools, intent in purpose, and all but one was blind to the soul of the dainty woodsprite who lived like a gentle flower among them. Love came to her finally, in the form of Jacques Fontaine, and she blossomed forth into a woman, all tenderness and charm. The transformation came when Sumac was about to be burned at the stake on charges of witchcraft.

Led by Deacon Bricketta, a relic of the New England days of black magic and the ducking pond, the infuriated fanatics of the settlement stormed the Royal Northwest Mounted Police post where Sumac was held on circumstantial evidence as a murderess, dragged the innocent girl to a pyre, and made ready to apply the torch.

Tied to a post, she was surrounded by brush, the center of an angry mob of mad creatures. Sergeant Lewis, the town's sole official, was away, investigating the murder with which Sumac was charged. In the agony of her terror the girl had little mercy to expect from the human fiends around her, when suddenly, straight through the crowd up to the fire, into the path of death itself, rode Jacques Fontaine.

His thrilling rescue of Sumac makes this scene in "Wild Sumac" one of the strongest incidents of a play surcharged with big vital issues. It is the picturesque, sometimes tragic, life of the deep woods.

As "Wild Sumac," Margery Wilson, recently elevated to the rank of Triangle star, has an unusual vehicle in which to delight audiences with her girlish charm and whimsical appeal to the emotions. She is as refreshing in her torn burlesque garments as the mountain stream in which she waded. Throughout the play, but especially in the scene where she is tried by the ordeal of fire, the little actress evokes the sympathy of every one who watches these mighty chapters from the life story of a mountain rose.—Advt.

The Deemster

By HALL CAINE

Learn How the Lack of Faith of a Father and Brother in a Girl's Honor Ruins Young Lives, When Loyalty and Relief Would Have Brought Happiness—Read the Story and See the Great Photo Play.

(Produced by Arrow Film Corporation.)

CHAPTER III. The Wrong Way.

THE next day, after thinking over his exile from the home of the Deemster for striking Ewan, Dan thought of Mona and felt that he could not rest until he told the girl he loved, something of the story.

So against his better judgment he went and pushed through the door of the home from which he had been banished, as it had been his habit to do in other days, into the room where Mona was usually to be found. She was there and looked startled at his coming.

"Is it you, Dan?" she asked in a tremulous whisper.

He answered sullenly: "It is I. I have come to speak with you. I have something to say, but no matter."

He stopped and sank into a chair. His head ached, his eyes were hot, and his mind seemed to be in darkness and confusion.

"Mona, I think that I must be going mad," he stammered after a moment. "Why talk like that?" she said. Her bosom heaved, and her voice was troubled.

He did not answer, but after a pause turned toward her and said in a low voice: "You did not expect to see me here, and you have been forbidden to receive me. Is it not so?"

"Dan," said Mona in a low voice, "nothing can make us strangers, you and me—not my father, not my brother or any misfortune or any disgrace."

There was a noise at the door, and Mona opened it and held it tightly. She looked at Dan imploringly, and immediately he went to the window, opened it and, with a nod of farewell, was outside. Below, forty feet, stretched a network of heavy vines with thick stems that had grown like a lattice around the mansion. Down this he started to climb with the agility of a sailor familiar with rigging, to whom a descent like this meant nothing.

Evil fortune falls by chance! The Deemster, returning from court, where he dealt with the destinies of the evil doers of the island, approached in full view of Dan as he started to descend to the ground from Mona's window.

By the devil's chance he happened to look up and see the unfortunate son of the bishop, and the blood mantled to his cheeks. He did not stop Dan's departure when he reached the ground, but there was murder in his heart.

He got off his horse and entered his home, going to the library, where he thought he would find his son.

And there was Ewan reading a book by the open window.

There was such a look of fright on the Deemster's face that before a word was spoken Ewan caught the contagion of his father's terror. Then, grasping his son by the wrist, the Deemster poured out his tale in his son's ears.

"My daughter has been dishonored, and you must avenge me," he thundered.

"Father," said Ewan, "I will not believe this story except from the lips of one person."

"What have I done that I should not be believed by my own son?"

But Ewan did not hear him. He had turned and was going toward the door of Mona's room. He moved slowly. Full half a minute his hand rested on the door's handle, and only then did his nervous fingers turn it.

Mona raised her eyes as her brother entered.

"Is it true," he asked very slowly, "that Dan has been here?"

Mona blushed, and there was a pause. "Is it true," he repeated, with a startled look, "that Dan has been here—here in your bedchamber?"

Mona did not understand the veiled thought that was in his mind. She did not answer at first. He continued: "There must be a mistake. He has never been here, never—never."

Mona raised herself. Her woman's pride had been stung. It seemed to her that her brother was taking more than a brother's part.

"There is no mistake," she said, with some anger. "Dan has been here."

"You confess it?"

She looked him straight in the eye. "If you call it so I confess it. It is no use to deceive you."

Ewan's features became deathlike in their rigidity.

"Mona—do you mean—that? What am I to say—how am I to say it?"

Mona drew herself up. "I mean that I hide my feelings no longer. I am not a child, and no brother shall govern me. Dan has been here—I admit it—and call it what you will—I love him."

Ewan was not himself. His heart was poisoned by his father, and then there he would have unraveled the devilish tangle of circumstance. But every question he asked and every one that Mona answered made the tangle thicker. He stepped back to the study where his father was waiting. "What are you going to do?" asked the Deemster. "She has acknowledged it," replied Ewan, and he reached for a knife on the mantelshelf. The father closed his hand on it, and the other fell on his son's shoulder. "There is only one thing left to do," he muttered. "You must wipe out your sister's dishonor—and kill him."

CHAPTER IV. On the Cliff.

STAGGERING into the open air Ewan's purpose led him toward the fishing hut, where Dan was in the habit of working on his nets and seeing his friends.

When he reached the hut there was Dan busily at work. As Ewan approached he rose, and as he saw the expression on the other's face that of his own changed.

"What is it?" he cried. "This island is not big enough to hold two of us," was the reply.

"What do you mean?" replied Dan, bewildered.

"That you are a scoundrel! Your heart is as dead as your honor!"

"Stop!" cried Dan.

"You have outraged my sister!"

Dan rose to his feet with rigid limbs. He looked about him for a moment in dazed silence and put his hand to his forehead as if he had lost himself.

The Murder.

"Do you believe that?" he said slowly.

"Don't deny it—don't let me know you for a liar as well," replied Ewan. "I have her own confession."

"Her confession?"

"Yes, and a witness."

Dan stood with teeth set and eyes aflame. "If you believe what you have said there is not room for both of us on this island—there is not room for both of us in this world."

"It is my own thought," said Ewan, and then for an instant each looked into the other's eyes and read the other's purpose.

They were near the cliff, and the sound of the ocean boomed in their ears.

Suddenly Ewan sprang at Dan, who was at a disadvantage, as he was involved in the net he was mending.

Their belts became entangled as Ewan drew his dagger, and the struggle started.

At one instant Dan by his great stature had reached over Ewan's shoulder for a wrestler's hold, and the next instant Ewan had wrenched his lithe body backward and crouched in a position to give a death blow.

In that encounter they reeled and changed places. Ewan's back was henceforth toward the cliff, and Dan fought with his face toward the sea.

It was a hideous and savage fight. The sun had started to go down. The cleft in the heavens had closed again. A stormy petrel flew from the cliff and swirled about the men as they fought, and direfully screamed above them.

Up and down, to and fro, embracing closely, clutching, guarding and meaning panting and drawing hard breaths, the two men fought in their deadly hate.

At last they had backed and swayed to within three yards of the cliff, and then Ewan flung his weapon downward in a last effort to kill the man whom he believed had betrayed his sister.

As he did so he lost his balance and, reeling backward by force of his own weight, fell toward the edge of the cliff.

Dan reached for him, but it was too late. For a moment he swayed on the edge, and then Dan was alone.

LITTLE ACTS OF PATRIOTISM

By Hildegrade Hawthorne of The Vigilantes.

It was the millions who took the little bonds, straining a point to do so, buying them on the installment plan when they couldn't buy them outright, it was these who gave the country at this great time the best assurance of the patriotism and the devotion of its people.

And it is the many little acts of patriotism, by the millions who for many a varying reason cannot make the great sacrifices, it is these who emphasize that fact.

The little acts of patriotism! We are constantly coming across one of them. Hearing some woman say, as I did this morning, while crowded into an office elevator:

"You see, I have only two free hours each evening. Isn't it too bad, for of course I can't do very much in that time. I knit one evening and make bandages the next—but only two hours...."

Or it may be another sort of sacrifice, such as this by a young girl:

"I counted up and found that I averaged fifty-five cents a week on candy. And I just decided that I wouldn't eat a single piece this year—or for the duration of the war, as they put it. And I talked with all of my best friends, and we've signed a pledge to put our candy money all together—it amounts to seventeen dollars and a few cents each week, think of that—into comfort kits for the soldiers, or wool for sweaters. Of course, it's silly even to speak of giving up such a little thing as candy in a time like this but we are all girls without very much spending money, and we've been perfectly delighted to see what getting together accomplishes. Seventeen dollars a week buys quite a lot!"

The other day I lunched with a friend of mine who is a secretary in a downtown office. As we gained the street I turned toward the restaurant we habitually frequented, but she pulled me back:

"No, I don't go there any more," she said.

"Why not? There isn't another so convenient, nor with better food—and then they make us feel so at home there."

"Yes, but they aren't complying with Hoover's requests as to meat and wheat, and I won't go to any restaurant that doesn't. We'll have to go another block and get into a crowd, but it can't be helped."

A suggestion there, isn't there, for those women who can't help the food conservation personally, since they don't keep house. Patronize no restaurant that doesn't comply with the Hoover requests, and let those that refuse to do so know just why they don't get your custom.

"Are you planning to save for the next issue of Liberty Bonds?" said one girl to another.

"The next? Wait till it comes! I'm still paying off on the last."

"Well, so am I. But I'm working out a scheme to lay aside a quarter a week in addition, and then I'll have enough on hand when the new issue comes to start taking one of them."

These are only a few of many instances I know a child who is running errands for two neighbors after school hours in order to pay off a bond he is buying. I know of two little girls who have volunteered to go without Christmas presents in order to send Christmas bags to the soldiers abroad. I could go on almost indefinitely telling of such little acts of patriotism, just as the rest of us can. Those who are doing them don't expect any notice, however. They are sorry they can't do more. They are full of generous admiration for those who are making the big sacrifices, giving everything.

Their are just the little acts of patriotism.

But they have their place, haven't they? And maybe the place is big.

TENER DISAGREES

(By American Press)

New York, Nov. 23.—"The National league will not ask special exemption for any of its ball players," declared John K. Tener, president of the league, here. "I would not go as inch toward Washington to ask President Wilson or the secretary of war for special favors for baseball," he added, in discussing the proposal to exempt 18 baseball players on each club of the two major leagues, as suggested by President Johnson of the American league.

BROTHERHOOD MEN TALK HOPEFULLY TO THE PRESIDENT

(By American Press)

Washington, Nov. 23.—Possibility of immediate suspension of railway transportation as a result of the four brotherhoods' proposed wage demands was removed and progress toward amicable adjustment of any wage controversy during the war was reported after a conference between President Wilson, the four brotherhood heads and members of the federal mediation board.

As a result of the conference the brotherhoods are left free formally to present and urge their new demands upon the carriers under a virtual agreement with the president, to avoid a strike or other cause of a transportation tie-up until after full discussion and consideration.

A definite issue in the wage negotiations, it was assured, could not be reached before the first of the year, as the demands will not be presented until Dec. 1. Future developments will depend, first, upon the carriers' disposition of the new demands; and, second, in event of a deadlock, upon further negotiations agreed to at the meeting at the White House.

Cryptic statements were issued by President Wilson and brotherhood chiefs after the two-hour conference, in which the president announced that the brotherhood heads agree, "in case of any critical situation of controversy, to consider any proposed solution in a spirit of accommodation and patriotic purpose." The brotherhood statement was in similar vein, declaring willingness to "discuss and consider any solution if a situation should arise which threatens the interruption of transportation."

What attitude the railroads would assume as a result of the conference was not made known. Several days ago, through the railroads' war board they agreed, in the event of a crisis, to place their interests in the hands of the president for such disposition as he should deem best in the public interest.

It was believed generally that there would be no further move in the present controversy until after the brotherhoods present their demands for wage increases affecting 400,000 operatives and involving increased expenses to the roads aggregating about $100,000,000 annually. Should the representatives of the roads and the brotherhoods be unable to agree, the situation then would be placed in the hands of the government under the agreement, and the roads' decision to leave their interests to the president's disposition.

MEATLESS DIET PROVES POPULAR

(Associated Press Correspondence)

Manchester, England, Nov. 17.—"The experience of the present war should result in the general adoption of the meatless diet," says the annual "program" adopted by the Vegetarian Society of Great Britain, which has just closed its annual convention here.

MONEY TO LOAN

I have an unlimited amount of money to loan Central Ohio farm lands at 4 1-2 per cent. Office Sherman Bldg., Washington C. H., Ohio D. H. VAN WINKLE

In his presidential address, Professor Ernest Bell spoke of the "many hundreds of millions of men and women who are now obtaining a living out of the slaughter of animals and fish, and suggested that one of the social results of a general adoption of vegetarianism would be that "these people would turn to more humane and edifying work. He added, "At a time like this, when food is a most serious problem, it is monstrous to devote 64 pounds of dry grain to the production of one pound of beef."

Bernard Shaw, in a letter to the convention, said that he had been a vegetarian for forty years, and spoke of the meat diet as a relic of cannibalism.

WARNING IS GIVEN TO COAL DEALERS

(By American Press)

Columbus, Nov. 23.—The federal fuel administration intends to take vigorous action against Ohio operators, jobbers or others, who are charged with violations of the president's order fixing the price of coal and of the rules and regulations of the fuel administration. It is announced that the names and facts concerning any reported violations are to be sent to Washington, and searching and complete investigations will be made.

The national fuel administration, in connection with this campaign to ferret out violators and bring them to justice, has sent the following order to Homer H. Johnson, Ohio fuel administrator: "Please report immediately any sales of coal or coke by operators or jobbers at prices in violation of those fixed by the president, and all violations of the rules and regulations of the fuel administration which come to your attention or are reported to you by local committees. Give such names and specific facts as will enable the legal department to make investigation."

COAL SITUATION STILL UNCERTAIN

The coal situation at present is not encouraging, although showing some signs of temporary relief. All shipments have been speedily swallowed up by the unceasing demand from city and country. Coal, apparently is plentiful, but it is impossible to obtain it on account of shipping facilities, some 40 to 50 car loads having been consigned to local dealers and some of these have been on the way 40 days.

The dealers promise some relief in the very near future, a number of cars being expected yet this week.

The appearance of cold weather will do much to render the situation acute should coal fail to arrive on time.

GERMANY'S AGENTS STIRRING UP STRIFE IN OLD MEXICO

(By American Press)

Washington, Nov. 23.—Hundreds of German agents, availing themselves of Mexican neutrality, are said to be responsible for the recurrence of fighting and plotting with Villa, Zapata, Penez and Felix Diaz.

The real seriousness of the problem for the United States lies in the fact that the output of the Tampico and Tuxpam oil fields may be curtailed, while the difficulties near the border might ultimately divert some of America's war strength from Europe.

Teuton spies are seeking to discredit Carranza with the United States by making it appear he can not cope with the rebel faction; they are stirring up anti-Americanism and are trying to bring on active American intervention, both as a means of detracting from the main war task and to discredit this government with other South American governments.

DESTROYER CHAUNCEY WAS CUT IN TWO BY BIG TRANSPORT

(By American Press)

Washington, Nov. 23.—The transport Rose practically cut the United States destroyer Chauncey in two, the navy department announced, giving details of Monday's collision which cost 21 lives. "Both vessels were running without lights at the time of the accident, the Rose crashing into the Chauncey on the port side abreast of the fourth funnel," the official statement said. "The after portion of the destroyer immediately submerged, and officers and men in that part were drowned."

"After the collision the remaining portion of the vessel floated about for an hour, and the transport was thus enabled to rescue the remainder of the officers and crew. They were taken to port by the Rose."

DR. HOLDREN WILL MOVE TO KINGSTON

Dr. Holdren and family will be greatly missed in this county, where they have a host of friends who wish them well in their new home.

TRANSPORTS COLLIDE

(By American Press)

Paris, Nov. 23.—The latest American transports to reach here had an exciting trip through the submarine zone. The first night in the zone two transports collided. One was slightly damaged while the other had a small hole torn in her bow and a few projecting guns damaged. Temporary repairs were made and the ships proceeded. The following night a submarine made a futile attack on the transports.

MAKING PROGRESS ON PAVING WORK

The Andrews Asphalt Paving Company is making fair headway on the Market street paving job, having been delayed by lack of material for the concrete base, and waiting for the base to dry. If weather and labor conditions permit the street will be opened to traffic in two or three weeks.

The concrete foundation has been laid except about one-third of the square west of Main street, while the work of laying the brick gutters will be finished within a day or two.

When the street is ready for the asphalt, this part of the work will occupy comparatively little time, and the street will be opened to traffic as soon as the asphalt becomes cold.
